Tax return with two tax liability periods

CPR no. (civil reg. no.)

Guidance

This tax return is for taxpayers who have been subject to both limited tax liability and full tax liability during the income year

If you were subject to limited tax liability for part of the income year and subject to full liability for another part of the income year, you can complete this tax return. However, if you were self-employed during one or both of the periods, you cannot use this form. Instead, you should use forms 04.003 and 04.009.

If, during the period in which you were subject to full tax liability, you received income from abroad in addition to your Danish income, you should also complete form 04.012 and submit it together with your tax return.

Complete your tax return

It is your responsibility to ensure that all the figures declared are correct. Therefore you should always complete your tax return, even if you do not have any income or deductions other than the amounts already known to the Danish Tax Agency.

At www.skat.dk/tastelv under 'Skatteinformation' (Tax information), you can see the information the Danish Tax Agency already holds about you. You can use this information when you complete your tax return. The amount fields on this tax return have been divided into two periods. The first column is for the period during which you were ubject to full tax liability, and the other column is for the period during which you were subject to limited tax liability.

Some of the amount fields are shaded. If the field cannot be used for the relevant tax liability period, it is fully shaded. If we ask you to use form 04.071, you should complete that form with the amount in question and submit it together with your tax return. If we ask you to use form 04.031, you should only complete that form if you meet the conditions for being taxed according to the cross-border worker rules and you wish to be taxed according to these.

Special rules applying to the period with limited tax liability

You can only deduct expenses related to income subject to limited tax liability.

Taxation according to the cross-border worker rules

If you have earned at least 75% of your global income in Denmark but are resident for tax purposes in another country, you can choose to be taxed as a cross-border worker. If you wish to be taxed according to the cross-border worker rules, you must fill in and submit the form entitled 'Supplement to tax return for taxpayers with limited tax liability' (form 04.031) together with this tax return. More information about the cross-border worker rules is available on form 04.031.

Read more about cross-border worker rules on form 04.031 or at www.skat.dk/graensegaenger.

Regarding deduction for interest payments , maintenance payments, etc. (boxes 44 and 56)

If, for the period during which you were subject to limited tax liability, you wish to deduct maintenance payments etc. (box 56) or private interest payments (box 44), you must meet the conditions for being taxed according to the cross-border worker rules and inform the Danish Tax Agency that you wish to be taxed according these.

Deduction for wage costs in connection with renovation work and household services

If you are subject to limited tax liability and you own property in Denmark, expenses relating to your Danish property are tax deductible. Use this form to declare the deduction. If you are subject to limited tax liability and own a primary residence and/or secondary residence abroad, the expenses are only tax deductible if you meet the conditions for being taxed according to the cross-border worker rules and wish to be taxed according to these. Use form 04.031 to declare the deduction.

Personal allowance if you are subject to limited tax liability for less than one year

If you have been subject to limited tax liability in Denmark for a shorter period than one year, you can choose to have your income converted into income for the full year and combined with your Danish personal allowance (tick box 69). If you do not choose this option, you will be taxed on the basis of your actual income from Denmark for the part year, but your personal allowance will not be used.

Income for a full year if you are subject to full tax liability for less than one year

If you were subject to full tax liability, you can choose to be taxed on the basis of your actual income for the full year. This means that in addition to the income subject to Danish taxation, you also need to declare any other income received in the period during which you were subject to limited tax liability (this may be income received from abroad or from Denmark, even if you have declared this income for the period in which you were subject to limited tax liability). If you choose this option, you should submit additional information.

Remember the deadline of 1 July 2025

We must have your tax return on 1 July 2025 at the latest. You can submit it via E-tax (TastSelv) or send it to

Skattestyrelsen Postboks 9 4930 Maribo Denmark

If you are late in filing your tax return, you will be charged a penalty for late filing of DKK 400 for each day by which the deadline is exceeded. However, maximum DKK 10,000 in total. If your taxable income does not exceed DKK 588,900, the penalty will be DKK 100 for each day by which the deadline is missed, but not more than DKK 5,000 in total.

Please note that the deadline for submitting the tax return may be extended only in special circumstances. If you would like to have the deadline extended, we need you to submit a well-founded application by 1 July 2025.

Pay your outstanding tax in good time and save money

If you pay your outstanding tax after January and before 1 July 2025 at the latest, you will be charged interest on a daily basis at an annual rate of 5.3 % from and including 1 January to the day when you make the payment. If you do not pay your outstanding tax by 1 July at the latest, we will collect the tax with an interest charge of 7.3%.

The 1 July 2025 deadline applies regardless of whether or not you have received your tax assessment notice. Read more about outstanding tax at www.skat.dk/outstandingtax.
